Sponsorship Package 2023

Loonies for Literacy is an initiative to celebrate the books and stories students love

Partnering with local authors, community members, and Calgary Board of Education (CBE) schools, EducationMatters is raising funds to invest in school literacy programs for Calgary Public Schools, while also generating awareness of the fundamental importance of literacy. The initiative kicks off on Read Aloud Day- February 1st. The campaign will run through to World Book Day- April 23rd, with students raising funds for their own schools.

To make literacy more equitable across the city, for every dollar raised by a school during this campaign, another dollar will be provided to a school in need through contributions from community partners like yourself.

The funds raised by Loonies for Literacy will be used towards literacy programs, including but not limited to:

- o Books for school libraries
- o E-books or e-learning resources
- o Early learning resources
- o Decodable texts to help students who are struggling to read

Learning to read opens up a new world of information, imagination, and communication; literacy is essential to developing self-esteem, an understanding of the world, and one's place in it. Please join us in ensuring that no student falls behind.

We need to act now

Kindergarten to Grade 4 are formative years for students. The skills learned in their first five years of education set the foundation for everything that follows. By Grade 5, students have typically moved past 'learning to read' and have transitioned to 'reading to learn'; at this point reading fluency and comprehension are critical to success in all other areas of their education, and students who have fallen behind, tend to struggle throughout the rest of their academic experience.

Many factors contribute to students falling behind from learning differences to language barriers, to socioeconomic challenges – Loonies for Literacy sponsorship dollars will provide support for students in need of a hand up in their education to help them find success in school.

*BASED ON CALGARY BOARD OF EDUCATION 2020/2021 REPORT CARD STEM GRADES

COVID-19 has disrupted every aspect of our lives, and it is also compounding the learning gap. Pandemic disruptions in children's learning are forecasted to cause a 30% increase in socioeconomic skills gaps¹; this is on top of the existing data that identifies that children in lower income neighbourhoods have almost double the chance of being behind in early development skills than children in higher income neighbourhoods².

Nearly half of Canadian adults have below desired literacy skills for a modern knowledge-based economy³.

Investing in students now will help to close the gap over time and give all students similar opportunities for success as they move through their time in school. This is an investment in their future and our community's future; when all of our young people are able to reach their potential, we all benefit.
